

A tree

: what a wonderful symbol of life, strength and energy! But does this come from

In a few words, the stage is set: the earth, the sky, water, the location, the energy patterns and what the Geobiology is however as ancient as humanity.

Animals and men knew where to find the most favourable places to live. From observation, common pra

Modern Geobiology reminds us of the importance of the location in life. The world does not simply consist

In addition to natural sources, nowadays, pollutions which are used considerably interfere as by products

Our human body is a world of information permanently relying upon, using and mobilising energetic resources

Geobiology studies these energies and these vibratory phenomena from down inside earth to outer space

On a practical level it highlights everything that can be profitable or detrimental to health at a given place

---

